What is the FHIC?

New York State's Family to Family Health Information Center (F2F HIC) assists families of children and youth with special health care needs and the professionals who serve them. As family caregivers, F2F HIC staff members can help others because they have firsthand experience with health care services and programs. On their journey, they have gained new skills and discovered valuable resources that can help others find their way through the health care system and make good choices.

How can the F2F HIC help you?

Connect with other parents by telephone, in person or online.

Get information, referral, and support when problems arise.

Build advocacy skills by meeting with other parents to share experiences and learn valuable skills.

Receive information about health care service systems in New York State, including information on how to pay for health care services.

About Parent to Parent of NYS

Parent to Parent of NYS builds a supportive network of families to reduce isolation and empower those who care for people with developmental disabilities or special health care needs to navigate and influence service systems and make informed decisions.

How do I become a Support Parent?

Support Parents are trained volunteers who provide support to other families. If you would like more information, please give us a call or return this form to:
